1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 1-59 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

The description of the bi-polar assembly 200 as shown in Figure 2 is unclear. It is not known from the specification and drawings what constitutes this assembly. Page 13, line 19 through page 14, line 3 of the present specification describe the bi-polar assembly in conjunction with Figure 2. However, from this disclosure it is not known exactly what makes up this component.

For example, what is the thick black line on the right side of the assembly 200 as seen in Figure 2? This black line is situated between top and bottom frames 20 and actually extends horizontally outwardly past both the top frame 20 and the bottom frame 20. Also, what is the configuration of the electrode plate 28? Is this plate within an opening of top frame 20 as in Figure 1 or, as it appears in Figure 2, the electrode 28 appears to be a layer of material located on top of frame 28. Also, is there another electrode plate located within bottom frame 20 of assembly 200-Figure 2? Finally, what components makeup the bi-polar assembly 200 so that the same indeed includes positive and negative active materials on opposite sides of an electronically conductive plate? Such is the construction of a bi-polar plate.

The specification and drawings are incomplete as to what constitutes the bi-polar assembly 200. Applicant is cautioned against adding new matter to the specification and/or drawings in response to this rejection.

Finally, applicant has claimed "bi-polar current collectors" in each of the independent claims 1, 21 ands 41. Are these components the same as the bi-polar assembly referenced in the present specification or is this referring to a different component? Clarification is required.

- 3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:
 The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
- 4. Claims 1-40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In each of independent claims 1 and 21, applicant has claimed "a plurality of bi-polar current collectors". It is unclear what is meant by this terminology. For example, it appears that Figures 2 and 3A of the present application require only one bi-polar assembly and not a plurality of such assemblies. The same is true for the storage device depicted in Figure 3B of the present application. Clarification is required.

- 5. In view of the above 35 USC 112, first and second paragraph rejections to the claims, it was not possible for the examiner to search the prior art because it is unclear exactly what constitutes applicant's invention.
- 6. The application cited on page 10, lines 14-16 of the present application should be updated to show its serial number and filing date and its most recent status.
